WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pop... Vigor... Vitality

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys remove 15 MILES of waste matter from your blood every day. If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount, causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This can be done by the use of DOAN'S PILLS. These pills are the best of any for washing out the kidney tubes, and they are also the best for the treatment of all kidney troubles. It may take you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS. A doctor's prescription, which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes. But don't take chances with growing drugs or "miraculous" "they cure" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes, for they may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS, the old reliable relief that contain no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

Pasture Crops Hard Hit By Drought

As a result of the drought, the smallest wheat yield in 41 years has been forecast. The table shows the estimated crop, present carryover and annual consumption. The drought has been particularly severe on hay and pasture crops, with the result that a material reduction in livestock is seen for some areas. The map shows pasture conditions as of June 1, the percentages being those of normal conditions.

Noted Soprano At Rotary Luncheon

Miss Therese Quadri, known as the "Ambassador of Happiness," came, saw and conquered at the Kingston Rotary Club luncheon yesterday noon with a program of song, pep and gaiety. Bringing with her a sparkling personality and a charming soprano voice, Miss Quadri entertained the Rotarians and had them singing with her as she ended up her short program in a burst of merriment. Having sung many times before Kingston and Rotary Clubs from coast to coast, the noted artist seemed enjoyably at home in her first appearance before the local service organization.

Samuel Sueder, Jr., played the popular American songs and interspersed her program with French, German and Italian numbers. So many songs she kept up a constant patter of conversation that had her audience continually laughing.

Kanfer Pleads for Revised Phone Rates

Morris Kanfer of Woodridge, appearing before the New York State Public Service Commission, Department of Public Service, State Division, in New York, representing the Farmer and Hotel Keepers Associations, comprising 400 members in Sullivan county and the entire resort district, including Saratoga, recently asked that:

The commission once and for all eliminate the compulsory features compelling hotel owners to subscribe to coin box service for a seven-month period, regardless of the fact that the summer resort hotel keepers and farmers operate only during a period of three months. Isn't it enough that the subscribers are compelled to pay high and oppressive rates without having a compulsory feature? In other words, under the present schedule the smaller boarding house keeper and hotel keeper must subscribe to a coin box service for a period of seven months or do without service at all. That, of course, is repelling, and repulsive to the American spirit of fair play. We were powerless to protest except through the Commission, and the Commission apparently felt that it was powerless to grant relief on that point.

Mr. Kanfer also asked that something be done about establishing a uniform rate for day and night service alike.

Mrs. Piccard Aloft On Trial Flight

Detroit, June 14 (AP).—Mrs. Jeanette Piccard, believed to be the first woman ever to make a solo balloon flight, was aloft today on her last training flight preparatory to a trip with her husband, Prof. Jean Piccard, into the stratosphere, and was expected to land somewhere in Ontario.

She took off at 1:30 this morning from the Ford airport and about four hours later was reported to be heading out over Lake St. Clair on the steady southwest breeze. Plans for the proposed stratosphere flight still are indefinite, as arrangements for financial backing have not been completed.

Quintuplets Gain As Mother Is Abed

Corbett, Ont., June 14 (AP).—Mrs. Orla Dwyer, 24-year-old mother of Canada's celebrated quintuplets, was abed today, but Dr. A. R. Dufour said alarm was not felt for her condition. He described her recovery since birth of the five girl babies as remarkable. The family physician explained that rest was necessary for Mrs. Dwyer and that she probably would remain in bed for a week or two.

The five little sisters continued to improve, registering another gain in weight.

Yvonne, at 42 ounces, is the heaviest, while Marie, who weighs 39 1/2 ounces, is the lightest. They are 11 days old.

Police Dog Slips Up. Independence, Kas. (AP)—John Wesley's police dog detailed to guard the clothes on the line in the back yard stepped into a shed to get out of a sudden shower. When he emerged the clothes were gone.

Why Some Men Succeed

What a difference there is in men! Some of them are full of pep, energy, ability. They think straight and they think fast. They get there ahead of the other fellow.

What's the difference? Usually a man eats success or failure at the breakfast table. Often he makes or loses a contract according to what he eats for lunch. Wise eating is the smartest thing a business man can do. At least one meal a day, especially in this warm weather, eat Shredded Wheat, milk, and fruit.

If you didn't have any other food you could live on this combination, and be mighty well on it, too. It gives your body all it needs for energy, tissue building, and disease resistance, and it gives you bran to keep you regular.

The right food has a great deal to do with your success. Try Shredded Wheat for one meal a day, and see what happens!

NOISY SUMMER

More autos have broken into ravens sound this summer with the increased use of automobile radios.

There is no new law on every side in spots of music activity in recent years against unnecessary noises in cities, the sound of musical instruments is still heard.

Years ago Oliver Wendell Holmes,

the physician poet, wrote: "Silence, like a medicine, comes to heal the noise of sound."

Music and noise, however, they do more damage to the nervous system, and consequently to health, than is generally realized. There is no need for substituting hopelessly to the great number of needless noises.

They can and must be stopped. And for the noises which so far seem necessary, there should be some regulation as to degree and frequency.

USE OF TANNIC ACID.

A few years ago physicians were unable to save the life of a patient with severe burns, owing to extreme shock. Today thousands of lives are saved yearly because of the use of tannic acid, which prevents severe infection and shock.

One of the distressing conditions which sometimes occurs in invalids is bed sores or decubitus as it is called.

These sores are caused by pressure, which in turn interferes with the circulation and nutrition in the part. The soft tissues over bony parts like the hip, shoulder, ankle, or other bones are often affected.

As the blood cannot circulate properly "death" of the tissue may occur and an ulcer form.

The usual method of trying to prevent bedsores has been to rub

the parts with alcohol; once the sores are present various ointments solutions have been used.

MURDER AT MOCKING HOUSE

BY WALTER C. BROWN

Chapter 44
MRS. DUFRESNE

THE dark blue limousine pulled up outside No. 34 Powhatan Terrace. It was only a little past seven o'clock, but the darkness was as advanced as though the night were hours old. Through the twin cylindars of light from the headlights glittered the vagrant snowflakes that heralded the sequel to the storm of the preceding day. The car was creeping with child.

"Wait here for me, no matter how long," Harper instructed the driver.

He opened the door and entered.

There was no one in sight and no sound of activity anywhere. He walked down the hall, unlocked the breakfast-room door, and turned on the wall lights. Whenever he returned to this locked room, he had a feeling that someone had been there in the interim looking over the "exhibits." He had that feeling now, strongly, but could discover no evidence to substantiate it.

Dropping his hat and overcoat on a chair, he went to the fireplace.

Sure enough, there was the brass urn in a corner of the hearth, exactly as Ellen Becker had described it. Harper pulled it forward and handful by handful sifted the sand.

Having made sure that nothing was hidden there now, he poured the white sand back into the urn, smoothed

it down, and returned it to its place.

Harper went to the door and looked out into the hall. He waited, hearing a quiet footstep. The butler appeared, saw the silent figure watching, and came to him.

"Where is every one, Andrews?"

"They are at dinner, sir." He indicated a door farther down the hall.

"And Mrs. Dufresne?"

"Mrs. Dufresne is having dinner in her own room. Did you wish to speak to anyone?"

"Not yet, Andrews. Later in the evening will do just as well. Is Donaghy about?"

"I'm sorry, sir. He asked Mr. Dufresne for the evening off."

"What time will he be back?"

"Eleven-thirty, at the latest. That is the rule of the house."

The detective went back into the breakfast-room, took up Mrs. Dufresne's stained slippers, locked the door behind him, and went quietly up the stairs. Still quietly, he rapped on the door of Mrs. Dufresne's room. Without any preliminary

Pressing-Up.

Washington, June 13.—The White

House is beginning to show signs of getting just a little hard-boiled about things in general.

There is less and less tendency toward conciliation and compromise, and a noticeable trend toward doing what it pleases and letting its critics go hang.

No important effort has been made to appease objections to the NKA,

AAA, etc. A rather strong hand has been taken in the congressional program (stock market, securities, housing and labor board). Likewise, in connection with the Tugwell nomination, some Democratic senators heard that, if they could not see their way clear to support

Robert Tugwell, they would hear about it later.

Most presidents get around to this point after the first year. They find they cannot please everyone, or even conduct their business in an open way. Too many politicians take unfair advantage of them.

Too many so-called friends double-cross them.

Anything they do will be criticized, so they might as well do what they want. That is probably the way they figure it out.

Vacation.

Something of that strong feeling is manifest in arrangements President Roosevelt is making for his Hawaiian trip.

Most presidents have been afraid to go any distance from Washington for their vacations even in placid times. Mr. Coolidge broke a record when he went as far as the Black Hills one summer. He would not go that far until he was assured

he could get back to Washington within twenty hours. Mr. Hoover called off his national parks tour one summer because of a drouth, which was not as bad as this one.

Mr. Roosevelt is going to take six weeks to go to Honolulu, but, what is more important, he is making arrangements which will get him further away than the distance indicates. Present plans provide that not only will he take none of his three secretaries along, but no news-months in the county jail and execution of sentence was suspended during good behavior and until September 15, at 2 o'clock, when he will report to the court. In the meantime he will report to the probation officer. This action was taken on recommendation of the arresting officers.

Gerald Long was represented by Roger H. Loughran, who had been assigned by the court. Mr. Loughran said that Long had entered a plea of not guilty and apparently had a good defense but he now wished to plead guilty rather than go to trial. In view of that circumstance Mr. Loughran asked to be relieved by the court from further assignment to Long.

This statement caused Mr. Murray to state that if Long had a good defense as counsel stated that he should stand trial because as district attorney he did not desire to have an innocent man do time. However he added that he knew that Long had no defense. Mr. Loughran and Judge Traver conferred and Mr. Loughran was relieved from the case as he requested.

Desired to Plead

Long was then called before the court and asked if he desired to plead guilty to unlawful entry. He said he did. "There is no question in your mind that you did enter this building," asked Mr. Murray. Long replied that there was no doubt. As this was not Long's first trouble the court sentenced him to one year in the county jail.

Harry Van Kleeck of Rosendale

was assigned on an abandonment charge and was represented by Roscoe V. Elsworth. Mr. Elsworth stated that Van Kleeck wanted to make arrangements to pay for the support of his child and would enter a plea of not guilty to the charge. He said he had a boy who was working and earning $5 a week. The boy was with him and he would pay $5 a week toward the support of the child. Judge Traver directed that each week he pay $5 through the probation officer and that if the money came from the wages of the boy who was working that in addition to the $5 for his family he give the boy who was with him $1 a week for his own. Van Kleeck discussed the matter a long time with his attorney and finally announced that the arrangement was satisfactory. Judge Traver then held the case open until September 15, at 2 o'clock at which time Van Kleeck will report to the court. Meantime he will be on probation to Mr. Service.

Hurry Labor Bill To Avert Strike

Washington, June 14 (AP).—Senate Republicans at a party conference today expressed dissatisfaction with virtually all the provisions of the administration's new labor bill and appointed a sub-committee to draw up amendments.

Earlier, Hugh S. Johnson, the N.R.A. administrator, told reporters that "I don't see anything more I can do," in the threatened steel strike.

Despite Republican opposition, the Democratic leaders hoped to get the revised bill through Congress speedily to use its provision for appointment of conciliation boards in an effort to avert the steel strike set for Saturday.

Plane Crash Inquiry Will Be Transferred

was in good shape and functioning well when it left.

After leaving the airport, weather reports indicated bad going over Pennsylvania and the ship flew up the Hudson to a point near Newburgh and then cut westward over the lower Catskill peaks. The plane was reported as seen at several points and heard as it flew northward toward Syracuse. Ellenville reported hearing a plane at about the hour it must have passed. At Crammeor it was also seen flying low, say reports. Near Grahamsville it was believed heard and it is reported the plane was apparently trying to find a landing field. It is also reported that in that locality it came down so low that it clipped along the tree tops and it was this trail which was partly responsible for the location of the ship.

Up at Branch in the town of Denning the plane was seen by Harry Cole, superintendent at the Johns Fordham estate. It flew low over the place and disappeared in the direction of Mongaup mountain. The place where the plane is said to have clipped tops from trees is near Hasbrouck in Denning.

Mr. Murray on Wednesday was in conference with United States Attorney Conboy and officials at the Newark airport in connection with his investigation.

The investigation of the crash is still going on at the scene today and Sergeant Hopkins and other investigators are still checking for Mr. Murray.

Fog May Be Reason

From investigations made thus far it appears that the ship became fog bound and the pilots were endeavoring to find a way out of the mountains, perhaps to make a forced landing, when it crashed into the side of Mongaup mountain which is located in the southern part of the western extension of the town of Hardenburgh, in Ulster county. It is not far from the Sullivan county line and near the westernmost boundary of the town of Denning.

The finding of pieces of glass in the wreckage where the burned plane was found has given rise to the statement that Bader carried chemicals other than those found intact in his grip. It has been pointed out that in all probability the plane was equipped with various glass apparatus including probably drinking cups and glass bottles in the vicinity will be closely examined to determine just what it came from.

(Copyright, 1934, by The Associated Press)

Liberty, N. Y., June 14 (AP).—The United States Navy Department in a sudden surprise move into the investigation of Saturday's air liner crash on Last Chance Mountain, stirred up a cloud of mystery again today from a document recovered from the wreckage and captioned "Formula for explosive D."

A naval intelligence department officer, his aide and a naval chaplain appeared here late yesterday and departed three hours later with documents and chemicals which the coroner Victor G. Bowers had recovered from the wreckage of William Bader, Buffalo chemical engineer, one of the seven victims of the air liner crash.

When surprise was expressed that the coroner should relinquish possession of evidence which had been expected to figure in the inquest, set for 4 o'clock this afternoon, he said he had turned over the evidence because an authority "greater than that of the county or state" had demanded it.

A long conference in which the naval agent, his aide, the coroner and the district attorney for this county participated preceded the decision of Mr. Bowers to turn over the papers. Earlier in the day, it was learned, the coroner was advised from Washington—on direct orders of Assistant Naval Secretary Joseph K. Taussig—that the naval department would appear and demand the papers and chemicals.

The authority under which the navy acted according to information here was the wartime espionage act, which set up sweeping safeguards against the divulgence of information concerning national defense.

Neither the coroner nor any other party to the conference would give any inkling of what was behind the action. The coroner said he had been sworn to secrecy.

It had been known since the finding of the plane wreckage Monday that Bader's baggage contained among other papers a document captioned as "Formula for Explosive D" and it was understood that Bader's employer, the Smet-Sulway Company of Buffalo, N. Y., was a bidder for the contract to manufacture the explosive.

The presumption was that the formula was not a secret one, and that Bader had been asked from several companies. It was reported reliably today, however, that only one other company which was not identified had been asked to bid; and that only two copies of the "Formula for Explosive D" were made.

One of these copies went to the other company. The other was in Bader's possession. An unconfirmed but reliable report today said that attached to the copy of the formula found in Bader's baggage was the navy's original copy of the formula.

The unusual action of one of the government's arms of war stepping into a coroner's investigation and invoking a wartime statute to supersede the county officers' jurisdiction was the more mysterious because of statements by naval officials that the formula was not a secret one. No explanation of the action was made other than that of Rear Admiral Joseph K. Taussig, assistant chief of naval operations at Washington, that agents had been ordered to obtain the papers "if possible" if they contained naval secrets or were "navy property."

With the papers and the bottles of chemicals which also were found in Bader's baggage taken away, it was not clear what course the inquest would take.

Junior League In New Quarters

The Junior League is pleased to announce that its offices are now occupying the new quarters in the Municipal Building on West O'Reilly street. As this is centrally located the means of access is greater due to the fact that it is situated between both bus lines. Much credit is due the generosity of the city fathers.

On Wednesday the first of the well baby clinics was held, with Dr. H. L. Ruddy in charge and the usual large attendance was present. These clinics are held the second and fourth Wednesdays in each month and it is preferred that appointments be made through Miss Cassidy, the nurse, by calling 712-W.

The second Thursday afternoon during the month the prenatal clinic is held under the supervision of Dr. John H. Krom.

Bitten by a Dog

Mrs. Wells of 15 Meadow street reported to the police department Wednesday evening that her child had been bitten by a dog. The child was taken to the Kingston Hospital for treatment.

Paris—Not to give a lady curves der ribbons on a brassiere would but to take away her shoulder straps show at the sides. ## A Gray Shadow Hovers Over Sportswear

New York—Reports from Paris to the effect that gray flannel leads the list of sports wear fabrics seem to stir in us little interest. Grays come and go in the style picture, but they do not remain for any length of time. One does, of course, see an occasional, perhaps ever more than occasional gray tailleur, but now that spring clothes have had their brief day and summer ones are in action, one sees little gray excepting when traveling, and then it is the mixtures with grayed effect rather than a plain tone.

There is a good deal to be said in favor of gray flannel. Since women have taken so many styles leads from men it might be considered because it seems to be the masculine summer uniform. A gray flannel shirtwaist, or sailor frock, has great possibilities, and one sees how and why the chic Parisienne is intrigued. Navy blue flannel was also a great French favorite. But with us navy is used for almost everything, but for sports it is nearly always combined with white. A navy reefer with matching accessories is one of the most attractive of the many navy-inspired clothes garments.

Many are again electing to wear a navy sweater or jacket with white skirts. Separate skirts, be it said, are more important than they have been for years. Buttons and pockets are usually worked into the design, which may be made up from almost any imaginable fabrics, wash materials naturally leading, and tweed mixtures, especially in the off shades known as dirty pastels, being the runners up.

Besides the white and white and tan sports shoes to be worn with such sportive clothes there are good looking ghillies, pumps and oxfords in white with navy, and it is quite permissible to wear navy mesh hose with such an outfit. Even more daring are the best rooted stockings advocated by certain shops, there only when carrying out the beetroot color scheme.

A row of navy ribbon bows down the front of the bodice of a white cotton frock qualifies it for semi-formal wear in resort wardrobes.

First Transatlantic Non-Stop Flier Would Try Again

End of Air Trail After Ocean Conquest

Given an opportunity and a reason, Sir Arthur Whitten Brown, only survivor of the first non-stop transatlantic flight, would dare the ocean again. His flight from Newfoundland in June, 1919, with the late Sir John Alcock ended in a bog at Clifden, Ireland. The photographs show the plane at the completion of the epochal hop and Sir Arthur as he is today.

Lone Survivor of Crossing Recalls Hop 15 Years Ago

By OSCAR LEIDING

Swansea, Wales (AP).—The lone survivor of the first non-stop transatlantic flight would dare the ocean again—if he had a chance and a reason.

He is Sir Arthur Whitten Brown, who 15 years ago June 14-15 navigated a twin-engined Vickers-Vimy plane from Newfoundland to Ireland. The late Sir John Alcock, who lost his life six months later, was the pilot.

Sir Arthur seldom flies any more—but his interest in aviation is still lively. His hair is graying but he has the sharp, piercing eyes and quick, energetic movements of a youth.

Sees One Mistake

Modest and forward-looking, he considers that distant battle Alcock and he waged in driving mist, clouds and darkness a closed chapter in aviation history. He said he saw no reason for commemorating the fifteenth anniversary of the flight.

"That's of the past," he said. "But looking back to that past he admits one mistake. In 1919 he ventured that it would be at least 10 years before there would be any commercial air line across the Atlantic."

"It's been longer than that," he said, "but not because aviation progress has been slow."

"I was over-optimistic. There hasn't been the driving force behind aviation that there was during the war."

"With that driving force removed, progress has been slower. But it has been normal."

He will venture no prediction now as to how long it will be before regular airplane transportation will connect Europe with America but, as an engineer, he'll say what he thinks is necessary before that step is made.

Better Alloys Needed

"Heavier-than-air machines need still better alloys," he said. "These are necessary so that the ratio of useful load to dead load may be increased."

"At present, if you take the total flying weight of a machine, you have between 42 and 48 per cent useful load and 58 to 52 per cent tare weight."

"In addition, more economical engines are needed. The coming of the Diesel, or compression-ignition, engine will enable longer flights to be made because the fuel weight to be carried is less."

Though a heavier-than-air man by training and interest, Sir Arthur does not discount the strides and possibilities of lighter-than-air aviation.

"I've always been convinced that the lighter-than-air machine has a place in aviation," he said. "That conviction has not been destroyed by the terrible disasters which have happened to airships."

Civil War and Revolution

No really clear distinction is drawn between these two types of war. Webster, however, defines a civil war as one between different parts or sections of the same nation or country and a revolution as the overthrow or reorganization of one government and the substitution of another.

Our Ancestors

Opinions vary among scientists as to the time the great apes lived. One theory sets the time at 50,000,000 years ago, another at approximately 5,000,000 years. One authority at the Smithsonian institution reaches the conclusion that the time was about 25,000,000 years ago.

Rice in the Philippines

In general the same methods of growing rice which have been used in the Orient for 2,000 years are used in the Philippines. A few power-threshing machines have been introduced, but otherwise rice is planted, harvested and threshed without machinery.

At The Theatres

Today

Kingston: "The Key." William Powell stars to inspired heights as he portrays a gentleman of fortune who loves and fights with grace and ability. The plot structure is somewhat hazy, but the work of Mr. Powell and the excellent supporting cast of Edna Best and Colin Clive raises an ordinary drama into something spirited and interesting.

Orpheum: "Hell and High Water" and "Myrt and Marge." Richard Arlen and Judith Allen are co-featured in the first offering, a romance that has its beginning on a garbage scow. Mr. Arlen, as master of the ship, rescues a girl who is trying to commit suicide, and the romance begins. Fair entertainment and worth seeing. "Myrt and Marge" of radio fame, come to the screen for the first time and go through their comedy routine in veteran style.

Broadway: "Master of Men" and "Chance at Heaven." The first is a study in power, its effect upon the man who attains it and how it affects the lives of others in contact with his strength. It's the story of a man who rises from a mill hand to one of the greatest financial powers of his day. A fine cast includes Jack Holt, Fay Wray, Theodore, Van Hout, Walter Connolly and Betty Churchill. "Chance at Heaven" is one of those low stories that make on and on through complicated until the happy ending arrives. Joel McCrea and Ginger Rogers head the cast.

Tomorrow

Kingston: Same. Orpheum: "Constant Woman" and "West of the Divide." The first feature is a romance with Conrad Nagel and Lela Hyams in the featured parts. The dialogue is the best part of this tale. "West of the Divide" is a little new or in the way of a row punch-cast and he proves an able actor. Best of them is almost perfect in Broadway. "The Crime Doctor" is a study of work of the east is worth seeing. A man, morbid and almost crazy because his wife loves another. He gets this third man out of the way, driven to murder through jealousy, the husband conceives the perfect crime, commits a murder and an attractive and capable, and Nina ranges it so all clues point to the other man turns in a rival in love. So perfect are the acting performance, Judith Allen plans that his rival is sentenced to death for the murder he put up with the audience in suspense. A surprise ending every minute for the action in makes the show the most enjoyable of a well-paced and full of surprise. This murder mystery, one of the best and brilliant entertainment.

MOTORS NEED More Air THAN MEN

New "life" for your car in Gasoline that Mixes Better with AIR!

This simple diagram shows what happens when you "Step on the Gas."

HOW MUCH GASOLINE does your gas tank hold? Ten gallons—fifteen—twenty? Multiply that figure by several thousand and you have an idea of the amount of AIR your car uses to a single filling!

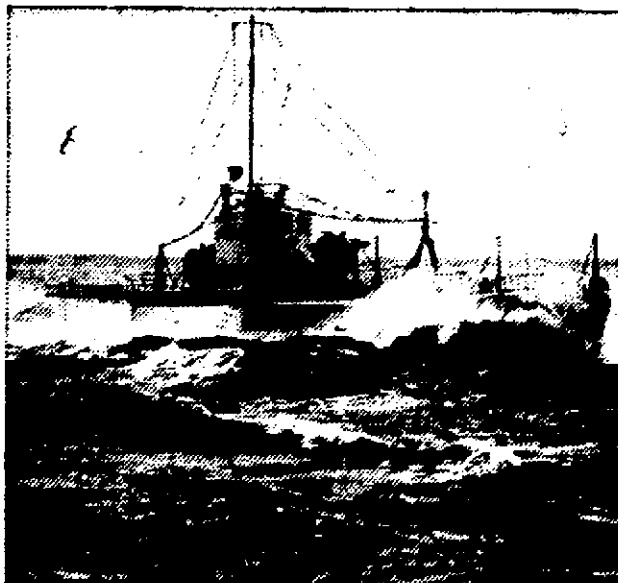

Here's the reason: Before gasoline can be burned—it must be mixed with large quantities of air.

It's easy to see from this that the power you get depends on how well your gasoline mixes with air. Slow-starting, sluggish pick-up, loss of power may easily result from a poor-mixing gasoline.

That's why we stress Climatic Control so much. This exclusive feature makes Socony Mobilgas mix better with air—all kinds of air. It delivers a uniformly good fuel-mixture in all kinds of weather—hot or cold, damp or dry.

Naturally, that means better performance. Full fuel value. Quick-starting—fast pick-up—dependable power!

Try the gasoline that mixes better with air! Stop at the sign of the Flying Red Horse—and fill up with Socony Mobilgas.

DOWN INTO DAVY JONES' LOCKER. The men who go down into the sea in Uncle Sam's "pigboats" are no more dependent on air than the motor in your car. Air is vital to both.

THE VAPOR PRESSURE TEST. Socony Mobilgas is tested three times—first at the refinery, then in storage, and again after it has reached the pumps where motorists refuel.

BRIGHT AND SUNNY when this picture was taken. But sundown brings coolness. Rain may come before home is reached. That's why you need gasoline with Climatic Control.

WELL SATISFIED with the way her car is performing. Hot weather or cold weather, dry days or damp—it makes no difference. She has Socony Mobilgas in the gasoline tank.

Home Bureau Women See Model Kitchens

Times have changed in the operation of homes in city and rural districts. The time was, not so long ago, when women in the rural sections were more or less envious of the home conveniences found in the city, especially in kitchens and viewed the city kitchens with longings.

Yesterday women from Kingston's well equipped homes as well as a group of home bureau women from Binghamton, joined in inspecting homes where the Ulster County Home Bureau has helped women to make a home and a better workroom of the home into very convenient and attractive kitchens that were visited on the Home Bureau tour of inspection.

The tour started in the morning with the small apartment home of Miss Nance, the Home Bureau agent, as the first place to be visited.

Here the visitors were met by Miss Nance and Miss Ella Cushman, specialist in Household Management of the State College Department of Home Economics, and Mrs. Howard Lewis, chairman of the Ulster County Home Bureau.

Here the problem was to accommodate the last word in efficient convenience to small space. In order to have a place for everything so that one could put everything in its place, a closet has been glorified into an almost complete housing department for the entire kitchen necessities for work and for supplies. Properly arranged and graded shelving took everything off the door and placed all articles in sight and at hand. Half-shelves, (as to width) were valuable also to keeping articles in sight and at hand. A bread box set on end and opening door-fashion saves back bending. The local stores provided innumerable holders and racks to be placed on the inside of the door, to hold cleaning articles, paper bags and wine and other similar articles, particularly a long-handled dust pan. A shelf over the sink and another by the gas range held articles most frequently in use there. And the color scheme of the kitchen, cream and light green, was cheerful and refreshing. It was maintained throughout, even to simple slip-on covers of off cloth or wall paper for discordant colored cans and packages.

One item of interest in the tour was the different fuels used in each of the four homes visited. Miss Nance used gas for cooking. The next home visited was that of Mrs. Eppes at Accord. Here the problem was getting rid of hindrances and creating helps, besides highlighting the entire room with a soft finish and cream colored paint.

A troublesome closet had been transformed into a thing of actual beauty in its convenience and order and so a joy forever. Rearranging of shelving with built-in upright racks on one shelf to hold, on edge and right in sight, large platters and plates and half shelves for bowls and similar dishes so that each dish was by itself instead of in maddening "nests" when wanted in haste. Near by, with a window in the center over the spacious and immaculate kitchen sink, as up-to-date as they are made, was more clever shelving. On one side shelves held food supplies in cans, and on the other side, dishes for daily use. Better than curtains to cover these shelves were snug fitting window shades, easily lifted to any height to obtain light, if needed, and good for keeping out dust. A cleaning closet had all sorts of ingenious and necessary cleaning utensils. The offending doors of the kitchen cabinet had been removed, so that when the table of the cabinet was ready for use one was not suddenly confronted with the necessity of opening a door on the articles on the table. Again a window shade was the improvised and convenient "door." The windows were attractively curtained with unbleached muslin, block printed in a soft red and bound with the same shade, and table dollies of the same coloring were on the table of the breakfast nook. Mrs. Eppes cooks with kerosene oil and propane. At this very attractive home, there was also a demonstration of how to clean wall paper and paint and how to clean silver. Freeman readers may call at the Home Bureau office for bulletins giving data of such cleaning articles.

After a picnic luncheon enjoyed at the Eppes home where ice cream and coffee were served those who brought their lunches, the tour left for Napanoch where two more visits were made. Incidentally it might be mentioned that there were some hundred and twenty women who visited some or all of the homes on the tour, and there was a party from the Broome County Home Bureau—Binghamton—Mrs. Ann P. Duncan.

WRITES ABOUT DEBTS OF BRITISH ON WAR DEBTS

Editor Freeman

Now that Great Britain has practically repudiated her huge war debt to us, some comments and criticisms which fact made it necessary to have to refrain from expressing any and should now be made and some sound inferences drawn from the latest act.

When our first contingents of American boys arrived in London and landed there before going on the fields of death, the streets were crowded with Britishers who cheered them all along the line of march and hailed them as saviors, etc.

All this because England fully expected that she was fighting with the back against the wall, and that she needed saviors as much as she needed her heart's blood which was fast flowing from her on the fields of battle.

Well, they did help save her, and we at home helped them do it by lending her billions of dollars, which she solemnly promised to repay with interest at a stated time after the war.

Of the millions of our boys who enlisted, thousands upon thousands of these soldier-boys helped to save England by sacrificing their blood, their eyesight, their limbs, and their future usefulness, and many thousands of them made "the supreme sacrifice," and now sleep in graves where they fought and fell.

Now contrast this with what England did recently. Some weeks ago there was a great mass meeting in London to celebrate the "success" of her renegades who had in fact balanced the budget, and thus restoring different kind of pension.

After listening to all the oratory of these officials from the platform, one Britisher in that audience had the moral backbone and courage to tell that crowd that if England had paid all her instalment on her just debts to the U. S., there would have been quite a different story to tell.

And what did that crowd do? They laughed at him.

Evidently, in the "balancing" of the budget, someone tampered with the scales of justice. Someone in the same crowd, prostituted his mentality and his morality.

All this was had enough but it was not strictly official. It remained for England, through her representatives in her House of Commons, to put, by implication, her official stamp of approval on the disgraceful procedure, and showed how much further she could go officially, and make such a procedure a shameful one.

Read what the New York Times had to say June 5 about the affair: "By CHARLES A. SELDEN (Wireless to The New York Times) London, June 5.—Cheers from all parts of the House of Commons this afternoon greeted the announcement by Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, that the British Government had decided not to pay anything on the war debt to the United States on June 15.

Silver Bill Awaits President's Signing

Washington, June 14 (AP).—The Silver Purchase bill needed only President Roosevelt's signature today to make it a law.

The signing, most observers believed, probably will take place within a few days. At the administration's discretion the treasury then will acquire enough silver to make it eventually one-fourth of the metal stocks backing the currency.

After approving Senate amendments to the Silver bill yesterday, the House was left with only one piece of major legislation to act on before adjournment. That is the revised labor resolution empowering a federal board to conduct

ZEKE'S BEER GARDEN
By R. K. WILKINSON
© Bell Syndicate &—WNY Service.

I HAVE known Zeke Taylor for a score of years. He is an old man now, one of Dexter's oldest inhabitants. He should, at his age, be retired from active business, should be spending declining years as most old men of Dexter spend them—spinning yarns with Elmer Stone and Sam Cook on the terrace of the Suncook hotel, or seated comfortably before the open fire of his own home with glowing pipe and pleasant dreams.

That's how it should be, for it is these simple things from which Dexter folk derive their greatest pleasure. But Zeke cannot retire and live on his savings, for no savings have been set aside for this purpose.

Some may be lacking in thrift and foresight during the days when his little grocery store, with its lunch counter stretched across one side of it, knew a lively business.

Some may be shiftless and lazy. But those of us who have been closely associated with Zeke know that none of these accusations are founded on truth or fact.

Zeke might not have been attentive to business, but he was never shiftless or lazy.

His life has been one filled with little deeds of kindness. And from them he derived his keenest enjoyment.

Zeke Taylor has been friend to every man who crossed his path.

Quite forgetful of his own future, he has helped this one in distress, counseled that one in matters of grave importance, lent moral and financial support to countless charitable movements and unselfishly denied himself when some stricken brother was sorely in need of aid.

The little things of life have meant much to Zeke, and others have benefited by this peculiarity of his makeup. But now that Zeke is aged, these things are forgotten.

Folks are wondering what will become of the old man, fearful that sooner or later he will be "on the town."

And because of their forgetfulness they are hard and condemning.

Not long ago I dropped into Zeke's store for a chat, and found him sunk into the depths of gloom.

He was, he told me, contemplating bankruptcy.

His creditors were pressing. Business was going across the street to the new modern lunch room, recently opened.

The old man was sorely hurt, inwardly wincing at thoughts of failure and being on the town.

His pride was hurt, though his words held no note of bitterness or complaint.

It was about this time that the taxpayers of the United States were, in a manner of speaking, quite steamed up over the beer and light-wine issue. It seemed almost inevitable that three point two would be legalized.

I mentioned this to Zeke and he brightened considerably.

One thing led to another and it wasn't long before Zeke's ordinarily lively imagination took on a new lease of life and began to function.

I followed him through the rear door of the place and into the space beyond.

There was a green lawn here and a shade tree or two.

Almost instantly I sensed what was in the old man's mind. A beer garden! A real old fashioned beer garden!

The spot was ideal; the location perfect; the old and musty surroundings especially conducive.

Moreover, there wasn't another store or lunch room in town so naturally and adequately equipped for the purpose.

We discussed the idea at length. And the more we talked the brighter became the look in Zeke's eyes.

His enthusiasm and eagerness, resembling that of a child, brought a lump to my throat.

I fell in with Zeke's plans quite wholeheartedly. And when a frown suddenly appeared on his face at some abrupt thought, I actually became alarmed.

The establishment of a beer garden would, he remembered, entail the expenditure of a sum of money. And Zeke at the moment was absolutely penniless.

Of course, I agreed to provide the necessary funds, an act which, I believe, has given me more pleasure than any equal expenditure prior to or after that day.

There was no need, I told myself, to let Zeke know that the money I invested was the extent of my entire savings; that, should the beer garden experiment go to seed, I would be as penniless as he.

And so, in the utmost secrecy, we went ahead with our plans.

None of the dozens of folks who passed daily to and fro in the street before Zeke's store so much as suspected that in the plot beyond the rear door a real and enchanting beer garden was being constructed. It was to be a surprise.

Zeke, despite his decrepitude, worked like a Trojan.

Tables were conveniently placed in a great, sweeping circle, with a bright by colored umbrellas above each. A trough was dug and water played to a fountain skillfully fashioned of cement and rocks in the center of the plot by Zeke's own hands.

The shade trees were trimmed up, shrubbery thinned to a respectable density, flowers and hedges planted where their effect would be most beneficial.

The finished product was something to admire.

And during its construction the beer and light wine bill had been rushed through congress and was passed.

The day that it was signed I rushed down to Zeke's store in a high state of excitement; a state which was short-lived.

For Zeke greeted me at the door and the expression on his face betrayed gladness and disappointment within.

"It's the license," he told me when I questioned him. "We got to have a license to sell beer and the damned thing cost 200 bucks!"

.....

I stared at him blankly.

It was true. We had expended our last penny on equipment, holding out only enough funds to pay for our first shipment of beer, already ordered.

It seemed like a little thing, yet in that moment I knew it meant the difference between being able to open on time—or ever for that matter.

There wasn't a soul we could go to for funds.

Zeke's creditors were pressing. My own resources were exhausted.

It looked pretty bad.

And then when it seemed we would have to abandon the entire project, Zeke came through with an idea.

It was a brilliant idea, quite characteristic of the Zeke whose brilliant ideas had helped one man or another over rough spots in the days when things were booming in Dexter and a man didn't have to sneak in somebody's back door to get his drink of beer.

At first I was skeptical, but the more Zeke talked of his idea the more convinced I was that it would work.

Had the situation been less serious I would have laughed mightily at this plan of his and wagged with anyone who wanted to wager that it would not work.

Anyway we put the idea into execution.

On the day that beer was legalized we hung out the sign which Zeke had painted and flung wide the door.

At first folks came out of sheer curiosity. Grinning, they poked their noses inside and looked around.

It was sight of that cozy little garden in back that brought them all the way in.

It was uncanny.

We actually had to hire outside help to take care of all the customers.

Zeke's old cash register kept ringing all day and far into the night. It was incredible that beer and cheese and pretzels could hold such an appeal to so many people at once.

The next day the rush was greater, and the day following, Sunday, we were forced to hire three extra waiters.

We were off to a running start, and it looked as if we were going to keep running.

Things were moving smoothly a week later when quite unexpectedly a government agent came in and asked to see our license.

Zeke winked broadly in my direction and produced the requested document.

The agent ran hawk-like eyes over the written words and looked at Zeke sharply.

"This license was issued two days ago. You've been selling beer more than a week!"

"Sure," said Zeke, while I held my breath, "that's right. We waited till we'd taken in enough money to buy us a license, and we bought one."

"Admit it, eh? Well, get your coat, mister, you're coming with me."

"Wait a minute," says Zeke. "That there license is for 3.2. Up till two days ago I ain't sold a mug of 3.2."

The agent stared.

"You're nuts. You got a sign out there says 'beer,' and folks have been coming here for a week."

"Sure," Zeke agreed, "they been coming here. But they ain't been drinking 3.2. They been drinking near beer. I advertised beer for sale, but I didn't stipulate what kind of beer. And these dumb bunnies who have been yapping for beer and light wines didn't know the difference."

It was true.

These customers who constituted our first rush had been drinking near beer and never knew it. And the agent was good enough sport to keep his mouth shut.

Zeke serves real beer now, or rather the man to whom he leased his garden does.

Zeke himself spends his days on the terrace of the Suncook hotel, yarning with Elmer Stone and Sam Cook about the days when beer was beer, and he never had a worry in the world.

"Trial of Mary Dugan" At Matoaka Tonight After Postponement

Defective lighting caused the postponement of "The Trial of Mary Dugan" at the Matoaka Manor Theatre at Schoenstatt's on the Saugerties road until this evening when the play will go on at 8:15, presenting a cast of actors and actresses the majority of whom have been listed on programs of big Broadway Theatres.

Dorothy Deer-Horn plays the part of Mary Dugan, Nicholas Cosentino that of her attorney; Hal Clarendon the district attorney; and Lawrence O'Brien, the judge. Ruth Browder, Saugerties girl, who has had considerable experience on the stage and radio, since leaving the village for a career before the footlights, plays the girl reporter in the three-act mystery.

In the audience are expected to be some of the most prominent people of Saugerties, including Mayor Myron Bedell, who is listed as one of the patrons. Others are Mr. and Mrs. Holley R. Cantine, E. Clark Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. Lewis, Harry Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Guy F. Astel, Mr. and Mrs. Grant D. Morse, Richard Overbush, Mr. and Mrs. F. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Louis F. Fellows, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Carrington, Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Phelps, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Keenan, Mr. and Mrs. George Kaufman, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dodge, Dr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Fawcett and Willard Van Keuren of Kingston.

Regarding the postponement of the play last night, Director James Doyle said he could have gone on with the show but with lighting effects not up to the standard he demanded, but would rather see the program held off for a day rather than do this. Expectations are that there will be a capacity house tonight.

New Plane Crashes Pilot Lands Safe

Buffalo, N. Y., June 14 (AP).—A fighting plane, being tested by the Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Company, Inc., crashed in Lancaster, Buffalo suburb, shortly after 7 a. m. today but the pilot escaped with a fractured arm and leg as he "bailed out" in his parachute.

The pilot, Paul Hovgard, landed in back of the post office while parts of the plane crashed in various sections of the city. A section of the motor narrowly missed hitting a man who was parking his car while the propeller fell in a creek. The plane came down flat in an open field and was demolished.

Curtiss officials said Hovgard lives in Pennsylvania but they did not know where, as he was hired only occasionally for special testing jobs. He was taken to a Buffalo hospital.

Witnesses said the plane motor suddenly stopped and the ship went into a flat spin. Hovgard, they reported, jumped almost immediately.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Even in his return to the stage, locally in "Ah, Wilderness," Will Rogers isn't allowed to demonstrate his ability with a rope. In 15 talking he has played all sorts of characters, except that of a cowboy. But they do say "westerners" have come in again, so there may be hope.

These galloping times as a class have more than the traditional nine lives of the cat. Virtually every year they have "died," and producers have noted their passing with sad tributes or lamentations.

They were "dying" six years ago, because talking had come in and "the public wanted sophisticated entertainment." But westerners kept on appearing, despite their apparent end.

The last "death" they underwent was Ken Maynard the principal champion of talking horse-play. But George O'Brien is going to make some more now. John W. Wills, Buck Jones is active, and even Paramount, which dropped the idea last year, is to resume feature westerns with Randolph Scott starred as before.

Frankenstein Returns

The ending of "Frankenstein," talkie horror-thriller of three years ago, saw the monster portrayed by Boris Karloff perishing in a burning mill where he had sought refuge.

Such a trivial detail is proving no deterrent to a revival of the character for "The Return of Frankenstein." You see, it was only implied that the monster met death. You didn't actually see him die. And what do you think now? He escaped after all—just to provide a sequel.

"Why Don't You Act?"

May Robson told it at a luncheon the other day:

She was sitting in the courtyard of an inn at Riverside, when a small girl approached and eyed her curiously.

"Are you May Robson, the actress?" the child asked finally.

"Yes," said Miss Robson sweetly, "I am."

"Then why don't you act?" the little girl demanded.

Mysterious Flag Causes Trouble

New York, June 14 (AP).—Flag Day—and in the dawn's early light there suffered from the eternal light pole in Madison Square a stranger's mischief of mischief.

It appeared to be red on one side, and blue on the other. The other side was white. The town's most active flag authorities could not tell what it was.

Some one had run the flag up during the night, then ripped off the rope and it could not be lowered.

There was much indignation. Casuals who had spent the night on the park benches discovered it first, and their outraged sense of patriotism prompted them to notify police.

The police could do nothing, so the police notified the firemen. The firemen's ladders could not reach the flag, so the firemen called some nutting. They summoned a park department expert whose job it is to repair the light on the World War memorial flag pole.

A large crowd gathered to watch the futile efforts to lower the flag. They threw stones at it. This helped to soothe their wounded feelings, but the flag still fluttered securely.

The flag was finally lowered by a police emergency squad. A wire was connected with the end of the severed halyard and the offending banner hauled to the ground.

This was no help to the curious public at all. The police wadded the flag into a tight ball, placed it in their truck and drove away.

One man said he caught a glimpse of the inscription. He thought it read: "Fight Hitler."

Reading, Pa.—If you were guilty in love with some one and killed him, you took his sins on yourself and the person killed went straight to heaven.

Frances Sesse, twenty-seven-year-old brunette, read that when she was a child and it influenced her to shoot down her doctor, Paul H. Hess, for which she has been convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. To her lawyers she described that mystic "motive" for taking the life of a man she apparently idolized.

A plea of insanity by the defense failed to save the young woman, although two jurors held out for acquittal because of her mental condition, which had been described by psychiatrists as a "split type" of dementia praecox. Three of the jurors were women. They went as the verdict was read against Miss Sesse who, the state charged, had killed because of unrequited love. While friendly toward Miss Sesse, there was no intimation that the happily married doctor had any other interest in her.

Still Loves Doctor.

"I still love Doctor Hess too much to say anything against him and I refused to take the witness stand because I knew as soon as I placed my hand on the Bible I would have to tell the truth," she said at the prison farm.

The day after Miss Sesse shot the physician she made a statement in which she is reported to have said: "It seemed to me as long as he remained alive there was always the chance for him to make trouble for himself. I felt his mind was made up to do certain things that were very bad if carried out. It seemed to me I should do something for him. I made up my mind that the only thing to do was to shoot him, and if, instead of dying, he recovered, he would regain his senses."

Miss Sesse's infatuation for Doctor Hess was indicated in the following letter she was alleged to have written him from Cincinnati less than two months before she shot him to death:

Sought Employment.

"There is only one person in Reading I want to work for and that person is you. The kind of work would not matter—scrubbing, cleaning—anything. All I ask is a trial."

Tall and stolidly built, Miss Sesse presented an attractive appearance as she sat motionless in court and listened to the witnesses for the defense and the prosecution bare her friendship with Doctor Hess and the details of her life. Her black wavy hair curled becomingly beneath her thin face and her dark eyes snapped belligerently when she refused to testify in her own defense.

Jury Says Death For Barrow Pal

Huntsville, Tex., June 14 (AP).—A jury headed by a minister has recommended death in the electric chair for Raymond Hamilton, the dapper one-time champion in crime of the late Clyde Barrow, notorious south-west gunman.

The boy-handit killer, who has gathered 365 years in prison sentences, slumped in his chair and averted last night as the Rev. George C. Montgomery, Baptist minister and foreman of the jury, announced Hamilton had been convicted of slaying Major Crowson, penitentiary guard, in a prison escape.

A packed court room gasped as the minister added that the death penalty had been assessed. Hamilton has boasted he never would die in the chair.

Crowson was fatally shot in a raid on the Eastham state prison farm last January 16. Hamilton and four others were liberated in the delivery, purportedly executed by Barrow, who recently was killed in Louisiana.

HOW WOMEN CAN WIN MEN AND MEN WIN

The Favor of Other Men

Unless two plants of bile juice flow daily from your liver into your bowels, your food decays in your bowels. This poisons your whole body. Movements get hard and you get constipated. You get yellow, yellow skin, pimples, dull eyes, bad breath, bad taste, gas, dizziness, headache. You have become an unattractive, foul smelling, sour-thinking person. You have lost your personal charm. Everybody wants to run from you.

But don't take salts, mineral waters, pills, laxatives, pills, laxatives, candles or chewing gums and expect them to get rid of this poison that destroys your personal charm. They can't. They only irritate you and don't take away enough of the decayed poison. Constipation won't help at all.

Only a free flow of your bile juice will stop your bile decaying in your bowels. The only mild vegetable medicine that starts a free flow of your bile juice is Carter's Little Liver Pills. ## No More Piles Doctor's Prescription Guaranteed.

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

This is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why saffron and suppositories do not give lasting relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Your itching, bleeding or protruding Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause. External treatment can't do this—an internal medicine should be used. HEM-R(111), the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonard, sold by good druggists everywhere, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the affected parts.

See why your time on external remedies or worry about an operation was wasted. Drug Stores insist every Pile sufferer to try HEM-R(111) with guarantee of money-back if not fully satisfied with the help one bottle gives. Adv.

Reverend Sentence After Second Look

Waterbury, Conn.—"Barney," a habitual drunkard, told Police Court Judge Edward Masella he took a drink to ease a pain caused by a tooth extraction.

"Let me see where the tooth was pulled," the judge asked.

"Barney" opened his mouth and the judge looked.

"Ten days for lying," the court ordered.

The prisoner protested and opened his mouth wider. The judge looked closer.

"Sentence suspended," the judge snapped.

Woman Called Dead 30 Years Ago Still Lives

Wichita, Kan.—Although doctors had pronounced her as dead once and twice that she was dying, Mrs. W. R. White remains healthy and well at seventy-six.

Mrs. White caused much comment in medical circles 30 years ago when surgeons left a 5-inch pair of artery forceps in her body. During the removal of a growth, her heart stopped and the surgeons hastily closed the incision, leaving the instrument in her body. One doctor had pronounced her dead, but another worked over her and finally brought her back to life.

For three years the instrument lay in her body. She complained of severe pains. Finally the forceps pierced her skin and she was taken to a hospital. During the operation again doctors said she would not survive.

Life of Oklahoma Man Is Saved by Soft Mud

Duncan, Okla.—D. E. Hearne had his head stuck in the mud but the ignominious treatment probably saved his life.

Rains had softened the road along which he was driving a wagon and team. As he stopped and alighted, he caught his feet in the reins and fell.

As he struck the ground, J. C. Wigham came along in an automobile and both front and rear wheels passed over Hearne's head, pressing it into the soft earth.

Finland Will Pay War Debt Installment

Washington, June 14 (AP).—Only a 10 per cent percentage of $477,842.44 in war debts due the United States will be in the till tomorrow night at the zero hour.

Four debtors—Great Britain, France, Belgium and Czechoslovakia—have told the United States they will default on more than $425,000,000 due. Officials expected more such notes today and tomorrow.

Ferdinand Verheke, Czechoslovakian minister, presented a note explaining that his country could not make full payment of the $4,451,711 due tomorrow without endangering its financial and economic structure.

The note suggested the two nations discuss a readjustment to permit Czechoslovakia to repay in goods and services.

Czechoslovakia is the first to make a suggestion along the line indicated in an American note to Great Britain, which said the United States would consider "partial payment" in kind.

Charles A. Davila, Rumanian minister, delivered a note yesterday without announcing its contents. Italy, Estonia, Hungary, Latvia, Poland, Yugoslavia and Lithuania will send answers to the American "please remit" letter before tomorrow night. Italy is the only one which has hinted it might attach a check. Finland will pay its $160,000 in full.

Parent-Teacher Associations

P-T. A. School No. 7

The closing meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of School No. 7 was held Tuesday evening at the school.

Annual reports were read by the secretary and treasurer and a report of the district conference held in Newburgh May 26 was given by Mrs. Craig.

An informal discussion was given to the question, "What Mothers Think of Daylight Saving While School Is in Session." Most mothers feel that their children do not get proper rest after the change in time and seek a solution that would keep their children fit until examinations are over and school is closed.

The retiring president, Mrs. Craig, thanked all who had cooperated so splendidly with her and had helped to bring to a close a very successful year.

Mrs. Parker Brininger, a past president of School No. 7, installed the following officers for the new year, presenting each with a bouquet of flowers: Mrs. N. Gross, president; Mrs. E. Wright, first vice president; Mrs. A. Ronder, second vice president; Mrs. S. Clapp, third vice president; Mrs. H. Sweeney, secretary; Mrs. M. Taylor, treasurer.

In order to become thoroughly acquainted with the opportunities afforded the children by a junior high school, Mrs. Craig visited the Phillip Livingston Junior High School in Albany and presented at this meeting a very interesting report of her visit.

Refreshments were served in the newly completed lunch room which has been one of the major projects of the association this year.

Mother of Three Seeks Clemency

Albany, N. Y., June 14 (AP).—Mrs. Anna Antonio, mother of three small children, today looked toward the clemency hearing before Governor Lehman next Wednesday as her only chance of escaping the electric chair.

Mrs. Antonio, convicted of plotting the murder of her husband, who was found stabbed to death on the Albany-Castleton road a year ago, is sentenced to die during the week beginning June 25. Unless the governor commutes her sentence she probably will be executed on the night of June 28.

Her attorney, Daniel H. Prior, will present an argument that she was convicted on insufficient evidence.

Governor Lehman set the date for the hearing late yesterday. At the same time he announced that pleas of Charles Faracel and Vincent Saeta, condemned to death as the actual murderers of Mrs. Antonio's husband, will be heard along with that of the young mother.

Frank Canora, convicted in Rockland county of first degree murder, sentenced to die during the week beginning July 9, will be given a clemency hearing next Wednesday also.

Rev. C. B. McCann Succeeds Humphrey

The Rev. Christopher B. McCann, who had been serving as assistant at the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes in New York city, has been appointed by Cardinal Hayes to succeed the Rev. William J. Humphrey, pastor of the Catholic Churches in New York city, who has been assigned to the Sacred Heart Church in the Bronx, New York city.

Now we are offered flaked coffee which can be steeped as easily as tea and which is heralded as "cheaper, tastier" than our present coffee. But have the food specialists consulted the nerve specialists about it?

Girl Scouts ULSTER COUNTY COUNCIL

Council News.

Applications are moving rapidly for the season at Camp Wendy. There seems to be more enthusiasm than ever among the Scouts who are engaged in raising money for their troops in various ways.

The camp committee is also busy making improvements at Wendy. The new water system has already been installed and men are now working on the installation of the new ice box. Scouts who are prominent in their type of work have been selected for the various activities.

There will be five encampments of different lengths during the season. The first will open on July 7, to last until July 25. The next two, from July 21 until July 28, and July 28 until August 4, are for those wishing to stay one week. From August 4 until the end of the season, September 1, there will be two encampments of two weeks each. Of course, there are many Scouts who will spend the entire season at Wendy; and those wishing to stay a month or three weeks may do so.

Those who have not yet made application are asked to do this as soon as possible, stating at which time they wish to go.

Stuart Parks Will Head His Class

The class of 1935 at Springfield College held its final class meeting recently and election of officers was held. Stuart Parks of Kingston was re-elected to lead the senior class next year as president. Parks has been president of his class for the past two years and is one of the most popular figures on the campus.

Parks started out while in Kingston High School as an athlete of ability and has continued that course in college. He is a four letter man, having won his spurs in football, basketball, indoor and outdoor track. In the recent New England Intercollegiate track meet, he was declared the outstanding athlete of the meet, and in the broad jump, he cleared 24 feet. He has been outstanding in all phases of his college career, and a leader in many of the progressive extra-curricular activities.

Pleasing Entertainment.

Zeb, Zeke and Elmer performed for the patients of the TB Hospital Tuesday, June 12, through the courtesy of Mr. Faye of the Elchler Hotel. All agreed the program was an outstanding success despite the fact it had to be given indoors instead of on the new platform as anticipated, due to the weather. Mrs. Sam Mann, chairman of the entertainment committee of the Ladies' Auxiliary, was congratulated on supplying such fine programs.

Festival At Hurley.

A strawberry and ice cream festival will be held on the parsonage lawn at Hurley, Friday evening, June 15, starting at 6 o'clock. There will also be on sale a variety of sandwiches, salad, baked beans, cake, coffee and iced tea. A musical entertainment will be given at eight o'clock in the lecture room of the church. A free will offering will be taken. Proceeds will be for the benefit of the Hurley Reformed Church.

Senators Out in Front With 30 More Hits Than Nearest Rivals

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

The Washington Senators lead the league with 30 more hits than their nearest rivals, the New York Yankees, who have 244 hits in 100 games. The Senators have 274 hits in 100 games.

At the last semi-official checkup last week the Senators had about 30 more hits than their nearest rivals, the New York Yankees, who have 244 hits in 100 games. The Senators have 274 hits in 100 games.

The Yankees' victory put them a game closer to the top as Detroit came out on the short end of a 15-13 score in a shuffling with Boston. With "Sauer" Cain having pitched ball, the Athletics won the fourth American League game from Cleveland by an 11-2 count.

Giants Victors.
A pair of young left-handers provided the box news of the National League as Curt Davis of the Phillies limited the Cubs to seven hits and came out with a 2-1 decision, and Ted Kitchman of Cincinnati gave the league leading Giants a scare before he finally went out in the seventh and New York won 6 to 4.

Frank Frankhouse, a St. Louis "Jim" made it easy for Boston to beat the Cardinals 6 to 0 when he held the second place club to six hits. Pittsburgh's batters had a field day at the expense of Brooklyn pitching, handing out 17 hits to win 15 to 2.

(By The Associated Press.)

Lefty Gomez, Yankees—Held Browns to six hits for 10th victory of season.

Ethan Allen, Phillies—Poled homer with man on base to defeat Cubs.

Frank Frankhouse, Braves—Shut out Cardinals for ninth win in 11 starts.

Harry Danning, Giants—Hit timely pinch double in four-run rally against Reds.

Joe Cronin, Senators—Heavy hitting, including homer, featured double win over White Sox.

Pinky Higgins, Athletics—Batted in three runs against Indian pitchers Gus Subr. Pirates—Hit safely four out of five times, accounting for six runs.

Bill Werber, Red Sox—Produced six runs out of three hit.

THE Spotlight BY GRANTLAND RICE

"In This Corner"
Let others seek the bright lights
Who bank on speed and skill
Let others watch the action
To get their hitting thrill
I do not care for hitting
That slip around the ring—
I get no kick from jabs and jolts
That barely leave a sting;
Let others look to science
With the duck and feint and twist—
Give me the Mauling Mastodons
Who leave a heavy list;
I like the bloke who slugs and grunts,
The muck who mauls and mauls—
I like to hear the noisy crash,
When some big mammoth falls.

The Round-up.
The Cloutless Colossus against the Clouting Clown—there's the show. The "natural" that developed when Primo Carnera stopped Jack Sharkey and Max Baer whipped Max Schmeling comes to a head in Madison Square Garden's Long Island City bowl tonight after one of the wildest and wildest hullabaloes any training period ever produced.

Anyway, this is the day and the night for the richest prize that sport offers—the heavyweight championship of the world. It will be the next step in the long parade—John L. Sullivan, James J. Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jim Jeffries, Tommy Burns, Jack Johnson, Jess Willard, Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney, Max Baer, Max Schmeling, Jack Sharkey—

In spite of the dissenting opinions of so many experts, I still ride with the puncher—Max Baer. He can't box a lick—but he can hit and he can also take it. It is quite possible that the Livermore Larruper or the Clouting Clown may not land a single effective punch against a much better boxer. If he doesn't, he isn't going to outpoint a telephone pole much less Carnera.

Max Baer is a natural clown—in a ring—in a golf course—in a night club—wherever you put him. He is the oddest challenger for the heavyweight title that ever came down the road. But he is big, strong, keen, durable—and he can sock with either fin. He is rambling on the punch and the ability to take a punch against better condition and greater skill.

He has turned what should have been a fairly easy win into a guessing contest—but I still like his chance to slip one over against a champion who couldn't hurt Loughran with a right hand to the jaw—a champion who can't absorb any heavy shellacking.

Calling the Turn.
Eight years ago Walter Monahan, a trainer, handler and conditioner of fighters, told me just how Gene Tunney would beat Dempsey. He had boxed with both in his Miami training camp. He never missed a syllable of what happened. He called by today to give his reasons for a Baer victory.

"You can put it down in a few words," he said. "Baer may look clumsy and clowning, but he is dead game, hard to hurt, he can hit—and Carnera can be hit. Briefly, you don't have to be a brilliant boxer to hit Carnera. And Baer has just the style needed to hit him—loping and hooking rights and lefts that may come from anywhere. Carnera has never been hit or hurt as he will be Thursday night. Just remember that. Doctor Monahan seems to have covered the ground pretty well. There will miss even a 250-pound target by a yard or more. He will be wilder at times than a winter gale.

But there will be trouble hooked to every punch he throws. Carnera may hit him five punches to one—but they will simply be points—not punishing blows.

Of the two, Baer should prove to be smarter ringman. He is a crafty, cunning fellow in a hard fight, especially when his mind is on the job. It will be on the job tonight. He knows what the heavyweight title can mean to him for the type of life he wants to lead. He also knows what will happen to his motion picture and night club career if Carnera whips him—especially after the oratorical outbursts Max has sent spinning over the land from coast to coast.

Tom Lewis Pitches Mayflowers to Victory Over Provisioners, 12-0
The Mayflowers chalked up a shutout over the Ulster Provision Dealers Association, 12-0, Wednesday evening in their postponed game of the Downtown Twilight League at Hasbrouck Park as the crowd that turned out to see the duel watched Tommy Lewis take to the mound for the first time this summer and hold the Provisioners to five hits, two going to Hopper and one each to Don Kelly, F. Leskie and Jack Kelly.

Opposing Lewis was Eddie Murphy whose slants were just right for the Mayflowers. They banged out 13 hits, three going to Tomasoski, two of them being good for three bases. Murphy also issued seven passes. This evening will bring together the Schwenk & Kelly combination and the Heretics at 6:15. Last night's box score:

Hayes Fit, Punching Harder, Ready For Torres On Friday

PETEY HAYES

Pete Hayes, brawny and hard in Kingston, there's Al Ragone, punching Saugerties featherweight, who is after the world's title in his division, finished training Wednesday at the Elks and is tapering off for his bout Friday night at the Municipal Auditorium with Ernest Torres, Cuban battler, who hopes to beat Pete and thus replace him as one of the four leading feather contenders.

The bout holds the star spot on the card for the American Legion welfare fund, and has been commanding so much attention that a capacity house a sellout—is looked for by the promoters. If expectations come true, the match should set a record for attendance at a boxing show here, surpassing even the Vince Coffey-Frankie Konchina scrap that brought in more than a thousand customers for the 156th Field Artillery when National Guard bouts were held.

Hayes at the conclusion of his drill yesterday in which he boxed with Julie Katz and Joe Leone said he felt fine. Both his sparring partners, who have worked with him previous to other fights, expressed themselves as of the opinion that Pete was in better condition than ever before—physically fit, ready for the 10-round grind if the setto lasts that long and punching harder than usual. He weighed just 126 pounds.

That Pete will need all of these qualities is indicated by reports from the Torres camp. The little Cuban, one of the toughest featherweights today, has been training earnestly and like Hayes in reported in the best condition of his career. He and his manager, Moe Fleischer, do not want to miss a chance like the shot at Hayes to prove Ernie deserves a top rating among the featherers of the United States just as he enjoys in Cuba, his home-land. There is great anxiety on the part of Torres to beat Hayes, but Pete says he won't. Indications in general point to one of the snappiest brawls ever seen around these parts.

Supporters to the main go will show in action some fighters who have pleased in the past and are anxious to increase their popularity.

Newspaper Consensus Favors Baer to Win

One Los Angeles Mirror stands out as a Barker of Carnera—Hype! New York Veterans of the Press Among Those With Baer.

New York, June 14 (AP)—Despite the betting odds in favor of Carnera, the newspaper editors, scattered in an almost unanimous vote of the national delegation, was that Max Baer will win the heavyweight championship tonight.

Sid Ziff of the Los Angeles Herald Express alone stands out against the western sweep for Baer. "California or no California," says Ziff, "it looks to me like Carnera." Among mid-western papers, where the pendulum swings toward Carnera, the south and east lean toward Baer.

Among the New York papers, Don Skeen, Harry Campbell and Ben Vidmer of the Herald Tribune, Paul Gallico of the News, Dan Parker of the Mirror and Hype! of the Journal all favor Baer to win by a knockout, while Jim Dawson of the Times, Sid Mowbray of the Post of the American, Ed Van der Meer of the Sun and Westbrook of the Telegram syndicate believe Carnera will carry off the decision.

Among the non-writing experts, two former lightweight champions, Benny Leonard and Willie Ritchie, and Jim Jeffries, ex-heavyweight titleholder, think Carnera will win.

Cinderella's Slipper

Although the folklore of many lands contains the inspirational story of Cinderella's romance, the different versions are not legends but variations of a romantic and true incident in the life of Rhodopis, the "rosy-cheeked queen" of Egypt, who reigned 2000 years before the birth of Christ. History relates, writes G. R. Turner in the Kansas City Times, that on a certain day in that distant past Rhodopis was bathing in the Nile when a strong gust of wind carried off one sandal and laid it at the feet of the Egyptian king, who was presiding over a court of justice almost a mile away. The daintiness of the sandal so impressed the king that he offered a reward for knowledge of the owner's name. Rhodopis claimed the reward, courtship followed, and soon she was queen of Egypt.

Chicago's Star Goal Tender Dies of Tumor

Chicago, June 14 (AP)—Charles "Chuck" Gardiner, called the greatest goal tender hockey has ever known is dead—a crushing blow to the championship aspirations of the Chicago Blackhawks, of which he was the captain.

The fiery, black-haired young Scotman died unexpectedly last night in Winnipeg, his home town, the victim of a tumor of the brain. He had been ill only since Sunday. He was 29.

Gardiner's name was known everywhere hockey is played. A model young man in private life, Gardiner was an inspiration to the entire Blackhawks team, which won the Stanley Cup championship this year. Nearly every all-star team of the last seven years listed him.

Indiana 'Two-Man Track Team' Leaves Trail Of Broken Records, Clean Sweeps

Hornbostel, Fuqua End Brilliant Careers

By CLAUDE H. WOLFF

Bloomington, Ind. (AP).—Sports history is rich in "one-man track teams" but Indiana University rooters think there never has been a "two-man track team" to match the consistency and brilliance of their graduating co-captains, Charley Hornbostel and Ivan Fuqua.

With their school days now behind them and only one college competition left—the N. C. A. A. games at Los Angeles June 22-23—this redoubtable pair boasts a three year foot racing record that few, if any, college duos can equal.

In the Western conference, their particular field of endeavor, these two southern Indiana lads won nine individual and helped win two relay championships outdoors—hanging up two individual and one relay records. Indoors they took down seven individual titles, including two records.

For the last two years they accounted for every Big Ten championship race from 220 yards to the mile inclusive—indoors and out—as well as the mile relay each year, outdoors. Before that, Hornbostel as a sophomore won the indoor and outdoor Big Ten 880.

Hornbostel, specialist in the half-mile bet a standout—in all except the most select company—in the mile as well, comes up to his final test at Los Angeles with the record of never having lost a college half-mile.

Fuqua's best event is the 440, but he has won dozens of 220-yard dashes in dual, triangular, state and conference meets.

IVAN FUQUA AND CHARLEY HORNBOSTEL

Five Conference Records

They wound up with five Big Ten records: Hornbostel's 1:50.9 half-mile indoors and 1:52.9 outdoors—breaking a 16-year-old mark—Fuqua's 49.4 indoor quarter and 47.8 outdoor mark for two turns and the

Big Ten Standouts In Races From 220, Mile

mile relay record of 3:15.9

The spectacular Hornbostel will be shooting for his third straight N. C. A. A. half-mile title at Los Angeles. He tied the meet record at Chicago as a sophomore and last year at Soldier field. In the same meet, won an epic half-mile from Kansas' Glenn Cunningham in 1:50.9, world record time.

In the 1932 N. C. A. A. meet Fuqua ran second to Alex Wilson of Canada and Notre Dame and last year was at the heels of Louisiana State's Glen Hardin in a brilliant 47.1 quarter.

Coach Praises Relay Skill

Other records they hold include Fuqua's 48.3 quarter for the Indiana state 440 and Hornbostel's 1:53 half-mile for the same meet—they split 16 first places in three years of Hoosier state competition—his 1:53.3 for the Central Intercollegiate conference meet and his 1:54 for the New York A. C. games.

Their work on relay teams, in which Coach Billy Hayes maintains they are even greater stars than in individual events, brought Indiana notable victories in the Kansas and Penn relays at the mile and two-mile distances.

Proud Hoosiers now are ready to dedicate their boys to Uncle Sam for his 1935 Olympic team with the quotation from Coach Hayes that: "The most important thing about them is that they have improved each year and are still capable of improvement."

Mrs. Moody Sailing To Watch Tennis

San Francisco, June 14 (AP).—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, former world queen of tennis, leaves today for New York and London and the all-English Tennis Championship at Wimbledon.

She is leaving her rackets behind, however, and in their stead taking a portable typewriter. She expects to "cover" the tournament for the London Daily Mail.

Mrs. Moody, who was forced to default to Helen Jacobs in the American women's finals at Forest Hills last year because of a back injury, was in a gay frame of mind as she prepared to depart.

"I'm really so very much better,"

she remarked, "and because of that I'm missing tennis more than ever."

Regatta Time Is Changed to 7:45

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 14 (AP).—The four-mile varsity race on Saturday's intercollegiate regatta program has been set back 15 minutes because of tidal conditions. It is now to be rowed at 7:45 o'clock, the board of stewards has decided.

Coaches approved the change last night at an organization meeting of the Association of American Coaches held at the Elms, Highland, crew home of Rutgers, Penn and Syracuse. "Rusty" Callow, Penn coach, was chosen president of the new associ-

Milkmen Trip Crystal, 12-11, In Industrial League Opener

In the inaugural of the Industrial Baseball League at the Athletic Field Wednesday evening, the Independent Milkmen scored three runs in the seventh inning to nose out the Crystal Gardens, 12-11. The winners pounded Van Buren, Davis and Elsworth for 13 hits, including three singles by Matt Lenehan and two doubles by Jack Dawkins.

Emil Bock and Paul Joyce worked for the Milkmen and yielded 11 safeties. Elsworth and Welch rapping a couple apiece. Five doubles and three triples were the batting features. C. Bock, Van Buren and C. Jansen each clouted healthy triples to deep center field.

The contest was a wild and woolly affair with 15 errors being charged against the two teams, the Milkmen committing nine and the Gardeners six.

Matt Lenehan was the batting star for the Milkmen. His second single of the game tied the score and his third hit broke up the game in the last of the seventh.

Trailing 8-6 in the sixth the Milkmen forged ahead 9-8 by shoving over three runs. With one down C. Bock and D. Blass rapped successive safeties. Bock scored when T. Jansen dropped Dawkins' fly and Lenehan's solid smash to right center drove in Blass and Dawkins.

The Gardeners assumed an 11-9 lead in their half of the seventh. T. Jansen rapped Bock for a double and Dawkins dropped J. McElrath's fly putting two men on the sacks. Paul Joyce relieved Bock at this juncture and promptly hit Bernato to load the bases. Davis's single through short drove in two runs and Elsworth's single netted the third marker.

Pucker Davis caused his own downfall by walking three batters in succession in the last of the seventh to tie the score 11 all. Elsworth came in and was greeted by Lenehan's one-timer which broke up the game. Clayton and Bock garnered singles and pulled a double steal. A walk to Blass loaded the sacks. Dawkins and Joyce worked Davis for free tickets and two runs trickled across during the score 11-11. Lenehan's sharp single to left then broke up the proceedings.

WHY

Chow Dog Is Called "Chow Chow" Told by Authority

Answering a question of the dog show at the American Bull Dog Club, the secretary of the club said that the name "Chow Chow" was given to the dog because of the sound of its bark. He said that the dog is a native of China and the first reports of its existence were made by English merchants who came to the country in the 17th century. They were attracted to the dog because of its beautiful coat, a red, black and white color. In England and the United States they are known as an aristocrat of the dog world.

N. A. for the name of the bulldog. Back in the days of "Merrill Old England" the dog known as bull-baiting was popular with the masses, and was equally popular with the rulers. At those times, the bull was then turned loose in the square, or market place, and the dog turned loose. It was the purpose of the dog to pull the bull down by jumping or biting him, and when the bulldog had a good grip on the animal, he pulled him down, hence the powerful jaws seen on a good bulldog. Once a bulldog gets a hold he never lets go. It is said that the name "John Bull" started from the bulldog, and the tradition also that "John Bull never lets go."

Why Birds Migrate; Has to Do With Food Supply

The most important reason that birds migrate is connected with food supply, says the Ohio Farmer. If all the birds that are here in the summer should remain for the winter, most of them would starve to death. The majority of birds feed on live insects which are almost impossible to obtain in winter. The only thing left for them to do is to go to a region where food adapted to their needs is abundant.

The birds get ready for their journey like people would under like circumstances. They are provided with suitable clothing. Feathers are their clothing and most birds grow new feathers before they start.

Wing feathers serve as body covering and also are necessary for flight. Birds, at the time they begin their long journeys, are always fat. This fat is fuel for the long journey. Birds stop from time to time to feed on the way. Unfavorable weather or the fact that some of the journey is over water may prevent this, thus the fat is a reserve food supply.

Why Horses Are Five-Gaited

Some saddle horses are termed five-gaited. They are not born that way, although some breeders believe that tendencies toward becoming a good five-gaited animal are inherited. The five gaits these horses possess, however, are the result of careful training. The gaits are a walk, a slow gait, a trot, a canter and rack. The slow gait may be a running walk, fox trot or stepping pace. Well trained five-gaited saddle horses with form and balance must have speed at the rack and trot. Usually such an animal is expected to show considerable "pep" and brilliance and is groomed with a long mane and tail—Kansas City Star.

How to Clean Auto Reflectors

Use a very soft cloth, or powdered dry rouge and a chamois skin, without pressure, and rub with a circular motion. Never rub a reflector with a cloth or chamois skin which has any dust or grit on it, as that will scratch the reflector and ruin it for service. If the reflector is tarnished or scratched take it to a silver plater and have it buffed; it cannot be properly polished in any other way. Some improvement can be made, however, where a reflector is tarnished by moistening the rouge with alcohol and applying with a soft chamois. Putz pomade applied with a very soft clean chamois may also be used.

Why Dollar Sign Is in Front

Origin of the dollar sign is authentically traced back to the Spanish-American abbreviation of pesos (ps.). It was placed after the figures and in many of the countries where the unit is a dollar the sign is still placed after them. However, when the dollar was adopted in the United States the people were used to the custom of placing the pound mark before the figures and so they did the same with the dollar mark.

Why It Is Gothic Architecture

It is a misnomer, since the Goths did not create any form of architecture. The medieval architecture of northern and western Europe of the period between 1150 and 1500 was so-called by writers of the Renaissance because they looked upon it as "barbarous," not conforming to classical models. They attributed it to the Goths, who overran large areas in Europe during the Dark Ages.

Why Designs Mark Bodies

Designs or figures left upon human bodies struck by lightning are caused by the zig-zagging of the discharge through the tissues. If these prints resemble some recognizable object it is merely a freak of nature. A heavy discharge from an electrical machine will produce the same designs.

Why Ocean Waters Are Salty

Salt is washed from the soil and carried into the oceans by the rivers. Since only the pure water leaves the seas in the form of vapor, the salt remains. Thus the saline content of the oceans is constantly increasing.

Gotham an Old Parish

Gotham is an old parish and village in Nottinghamshire, England, the inhabitants of which are reputed to have played the fool in order to dissuade King John from passing through their town, thereby avoiding the expense of entertaining him, Washington Irving in "Salmagundi" written in 1807 used it as a satirical nickname for New York on account of the pretentious wisdom of the citizens.

THROUGH A
Woman's Eyes

By JEAN NEWTON

ARE YOU AN ARTIST?

"I OUGHT to be beautiful, my dear. I am seventy-four years old."

Many young people will not understand that at all. So let us tell the story.

"A woman traveling in India was entertained by a lady of high rank. The visitor was so impressed with the charm and grace of her hostess that she exclaimed: 'I think that you are perfectly beautiful.' Then came the answer: 'I ought to be beautiful, my dear. I am seventy-four years old.'"

It must have been in our Creator's plan that the years should give us beauty, that for the pleasures they take away they should compensate with other enrichment. And since enrichment within is always reflected, that means that the years should empower us to shed beauty around us.

"Certainly," you will say, "if what you mean by beauty is not the beauty of the eye. There is the beauty of wisdom, of humor, of understanding that comes with age. There is the beauty of calm and peace of those who have lived the 'depth' that makes the mellow beauty of old silver and old woods. Take Whistler's painting of his mother. Where can you find greater beauty of peace and calm and wise content?"

Then I should like issue with you. For what I mean by beauty alludes also to beauty of the eye. To me Whistler's "Mother" is beautiful to look at, no less than the lush young beauty of a dancing girl.

Why have the greatest artists delighted to paint those rich in years? Their object is beauty, and their medium entirely the visual, the pleasure of the eye. They apparently agree with the Indian lady of seventy-four that the years bring beauty. But beauty of any kind depends somewhat on the eye of the beholder. In the artist it finds appreciation. Are you an artist in life?

St. Denis

St. Denis, the patron saint of France, especially during the centuries of the old monarchy, is known in history as Dionysius, the first bishop of Paris. In the year 270 he and his companions suffered martyrdom. The bishop's body was buried at a spot about five miles north of Paris. Somewhat later, a chapel was built over the grave and it was a place for pilgrimages during the Fifth and Sixth centuries. In the year 630 King Dagobert built an abbey there, and later buildings of like kind still stand there. One is occupied by a school for daughters of members of the Legion of Honor, founded by Napoleon I. A town grew up about the spot, known then as now as St. Denis. Once it was held to be the military key of Paris. Today it is an industrial place with a population of more than 78,000.
